

PROPOSAL • FALL 2026

Assumption Finance Club

Building Assumption's front door to careers in finance

Prepared by Fabian Garvik

A Norwegian student-athlete who brings discipline, an international lens and hands-on consulting experience

Fabian Garvik

Høvik (Oslo), Norway
[Major] • Class of [20XX]

Student-athlete

Men's Tennis at Assumption. Trained at Norges Toppidrettsgymnas (NTG), Norway's elite sports high school — 10+ years of competing under pressure.

International perspective

Grew up in Norway, home of the world's largest sovereign wealth fund. Wrote a research paper on how oil wealth built the Norwegian Government Pension Fund.

Consulting experience

At Saint Louis University, co-led an RFP response for a mid-sized distributor: ERP, network and ROI recommendation. I owned the executive summary.

Why finance

I follow markets daily and want a career in finance. I transferred to Assumption this fall — and found no open place for students like me to build those skills.

Executive summary: an open, career-focused finance club that feeds — not competes with — the Greyhound Investment Club

Situation

Finance is one of the most popular career goals for business students, and Assumption already runs a strong, selective Greyhound Investment Club inside the Grenon School of Business.

Complication

The Investment Club requires FIN 325 and ECO 115 first — so most first- and second-year students, and non-finance majors, have no structured way in. Yet internship recruiting in finance starts as early as sophomore year.

Proposal

Launch the Assumption Finance Club (AFC): open to all majors and years, focused on skills, networking and recruiting — Learn, Connect, Compete, Launch.

Ask

A faculty advisor, support through club recognition, and an introduction to the Investment Club and CareerSuccess so AFC can act as their pipeline.

Today, students interested in finance have no open entry point until their junior year

AFC is the on-ramp to the Greyhound Investment Club — together they form a complete finance pathway

Who	Any major, any year	Students who completed FIN 325 + ECO 115
Focus	Careers: skills, networking, recruiting	Managing a real portfolio
Format	Workshops, speakers, treks, competitions	Trading room, stock analysis, Bloomberg
Outcome	Internship-ready students — and GIC applicants	Hands-on investment track record

Pipeline: AFC members take FIN 325 / ECO 115, then apply to GIC as stronger candidates.

Four pillars turn interest into offers: Learn, Connect, Compete, Launch

01

Learn

- Excel & financial modeling basics
- Accounting & valuation 101
- Markets briefing every meeting

02

Connect

- Alumni & industry speakers
- Boston / Worcester firm visits
- LinkedIn & networking workshops

03

Compete

- Internal stock-pitch competition
- Intercollegiate case competitions
- Teams mix majors & years

04

Launch

- Resume & cover letter reviews
- Technical & behavioral mock interviews
- Internship tracker with CareerSuccess

Year-one roadmap: launch this semester, prove traction by spring, hand over to a new board in April

SPRING 2027

A lean five-person board with a faculty advisor keeps AFC accountable and sustainable

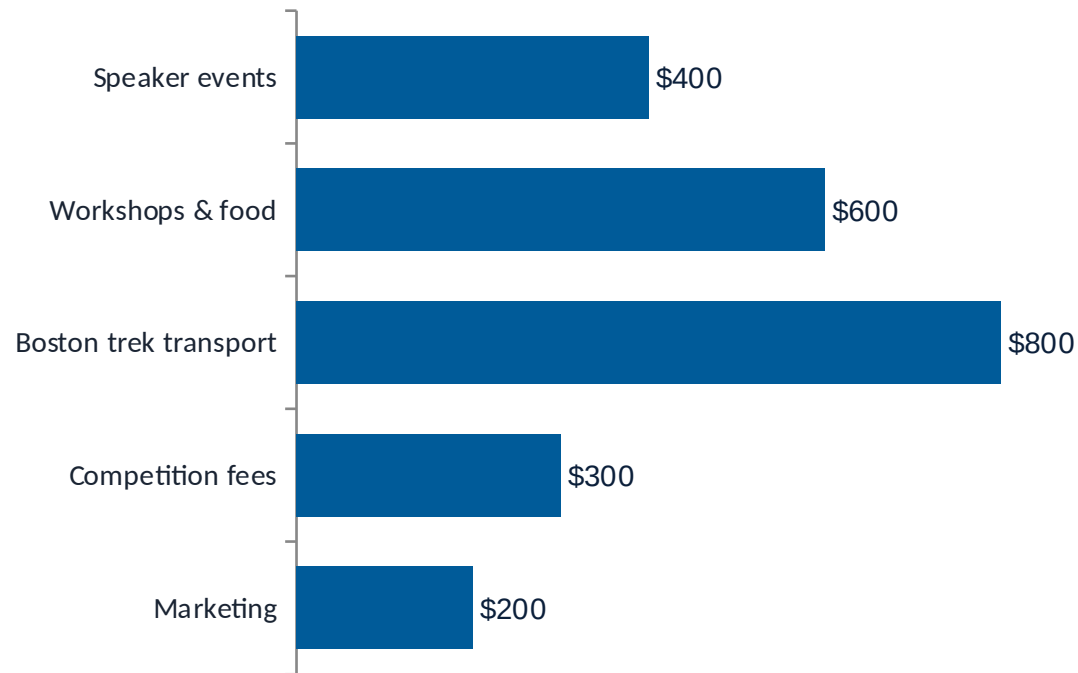

Membership: open to all undergraduates • Target of ~30 active members in year one • Board elected each April

A modest first-year budget, measured against clear targets

Estimated year-one budget (USD)

Total ≈ $2,300

Year-one targets

30

active members

8+

events per year

alumni / industry speakers

members join GIC or land a finance internship

We have anticipated the main risks — and how to mitigate each one

Overlap with the Investment Club

Clear scope split (careers vs. portfolio); joint event each semester; GIC member on AFC advisory seat.

Club fades after the founder leaves

Mixed-year board, written playbook, elections every April, faculty advisor for continuity.

Low turnout after launch

Open to all majors; practical, résumé-worthy sessions; food at events; consistent schedule.

Founder capacity (in-season athlete)

Responsibilities split across five VPs; calendar built around the tennis season.

What I am asking for today — and the next steps

Serve as faculty advisor

Or recommend a colleague in the Grenon School who would.

Guide us through recognition

Point us to the right office and process for a new student organization.
- 3

Connect us

Introductions to the Greyhound Investment Club leadership and CareerSuccess.

NEXT STEPS

This week

Confirm advisor; get recognition paperwork

Within 2 weeks

Recruit founding board; draft constitution

By end of Oct.

Submit for recognition; meet GIC leadership

November

Kick-off event

Thank you
